

Stage 7:

You want to modify j001.html again to include a secondary timer.

This secondary timer is for when you are searching the web for an answer you are looking for. There should be a 'start searching' button on the secondary timer. When the start button is hit, the main timer should pause, the secondary timer should start, and the button name should change to 'done searching'. The secondary timer should stop when 'done searching' is pressed or when 15 minutes has passed, whichever comes first. When the done button is pressed, the time on the secondary timer should be added to the original timer, which should then resume (be sure and properly handle the case of the search time throwing the primary time over 60 minutes).
