

Stage 7:

We should now add functionality to j100.html so that the user can delete any video in the displayed list. If localStorage is working right, this change should persist from one load of the page to the next. It would probably be useful to have a reset button so that the user can always go back to a standard list (like the exciting In Limbo series).